A Measure of Merit

Norway Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.

Proof of merit lies in the evidence. Convincing evidence in Norway. Is not the testimony of strangers, But the endorsement of Norway people.

That's the kind of proof given here—The statement of a Norway citizen.

William O. Needham, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "Whenever I took cold, it settled on my kidneys and caused trouble with these organs. Several years ago I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and since then whenever I have felt my kidneys to be in need of a tonic I have taken this remedy, procuring my supply at Stone's drug store. It has never failed to rid my system of uric acid poison and give me relief. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a very reliable kidney medicine."

Christ Crucified.

Now ever slept, my prayer had been that To do with my way, Christ, our Lord and Master, day by day.

And with this prayer upon my lips, I knew not But suddenly the world of night a pandemonium seemed.

From forest and from slaughter house, from bull ring, and from stall, There rose an anguished cry of pain, a loud As man—the dumb beast's next of kin—with gun, and whip and knife, Went pleasure-seeking through the earth, blood-bent on taking life.

From trap, and cage, and house, and zoo, and street, that awful strain Of tortured creatures rose and swelled the orchestra of pain. And then methought the gentle Christ appeared to me, and spoke: "I called you, but ye answered not"—and in my fear I woke,

Again I slept. I seemed to climb a hard, ascending track; And just behind me labored one whose patient face was black.

I pitted him, but hour by hour he gained upon the path. He stood beside me, stood upright—and then I "Go back!" I cried. "What right have you to walk beside me here?"

For you are black and I am white." I paused, struck dumb with fear. For lo! the black man was not there, but Christ stood in his place.

And oh! the pain, the pain, the pain that looked from that dear face.

The rear of mills; and moving through the noise. Like phantoms in an underworld, were little But the labor of their hands greed added gold to gold.

Again the Presence and the Voice: "Behold the crimes I see, As ye have done it unto these, so have ye done me."

Now when I woke, the air was rife with that sweet, rhythmic din Which tells the world that Christ has come and through the open door of church and temple passed a throng.

To worship him with bended knees, with sermon and with song. But over all I heard the cry of hunted, mangled things.

Those creatures which are part of God, though they have hoofs and wings. I saw in mill, and mine, and shop, the little slaves of greed;

I heard the strife of race with race, all sprung And then I bowed my head in shame, and in contrition cried: "Lo, after centuries long, Christ still is Crucified."

One of the Best Exercises. Horseback riding is, without doubt, one of the best exercises for women. In late years it has been adopted more frequently in the cities after a decade when it was almost forgotten.

Those who have never been in a saddle are learning from experts and riding masters. In many of the Eastern cities riding has become a part of the education of a child.

It is regarded as the very best exercise for the promotion of health to those who know the exhilaration of traveling over a good road on a perfect mount. In fact there is no substitute for riding as a healthful out-of-door sport.

The first difficulties of learning to ride overcome, its good effects soon become apparent, not only in improved circulation and appetite, but in the self-control and decision it teaches. Quite as necessary as the proper use of hand and legs are the mental requirements necessary for the making of a horsewoman.

She learns to control by mind as well as by her hand and riding lends an ease and grace which few other accomplishments can give.

At the age of seven or eight is the best time to begin taking lessons in riding, for when younger a little girl's legs are too short and it is difficult for her to keep her balance. Balance is one of the great points in riding. On the other hand, since it is conceded that a child's training is best begun before the mind and body have reached their full development, the importance of embracing the art of horsemanship in the elementary education cannot be too strongly emphasized. And at whatever age the beginner approaches the subject, the endeavor of both teacher and pupil should be to eliminate all tendencies which are opposed to recognized rules.

Children take naturally to the sport and are more easily taught, but age is really no impediment in learning to ride. Women of fifty and sixty go to California and other parts of the country, where the only way to view the beauties of the scenery is from the back of a horse, and they become used in a short time to the invigoration of riding.

Good instructors go very slowly with a beginner who exhibits nervousness or signs of fear. She should start on a walk, and her stirrups have been adjusted to the proper length, giving her the correct position of the limbs and she has been told to sit squarely on the top of her saddle, with the shoulders level and the hips well in line. The snaffle rein is passed back of the hand and held outside the little fingers, so that they may be pulled through the palms, and the reins should then be pressed by the thumbs against the first fingers.

It is no well for a beginner to start posting or rising, but she should jog along until she feels the balance of the horse's trot. The muscles should feel the saddle properly, and one teacher suggests that a good way to obtain balance is to count one, two, three, four, the same as in dancing, but to the horse's step. This is done in a trotting gait until the pupil has complete control of her horse's trot. The muscles should feel the saddle properly, and one teacher suggests that a good way to obtain balance is to count one, two, three, four, the same as in dancing, but to the horse's step. This is done in a trotting gait until the pupil has complete control of her horse's trot.

She should not in posting either pull herself up by the reins or push up from the stirrup; the chief work should be done by the right thigh.

In casting the break of the body should work separately from the lower part and should be at the hips. The legs, to say the limbs and thighs are kept firm, while from the hips up the body sways gracefully with the motion of the horse. When a rider has this seat perfect and has her horse under perfect control in a hard gallop she is qualified to jump.

Up to this point of posting the curb rein may be used by the teacher and the near-side rein passed back of the horse's mouth and through the other snaffle ring. This gives the instructor a more even guidance of the horse. When the rider begins to post she should be given the four reins and be made to understand that she must control her horse.

Pulling her curb rein suddenly may cause her horse to rear, and she will not make him nervous if she does not suddenly. She cannot afford to be capricious or meaningless with her reins for a horse soon learns when she has no power.

The riding posture has been a debated question for some years, with arguments for and against cross-saddle and side-saddle riding. Many riding-school instructors favor the cross-saddle and it will have nothing but the side-saddle. Some women riding teachers claim the woman's figure is not made for the cross-saddle and contend that the side-saddle insures a stronger seat, especially in all cases of pitching forward when on a stumbling or kicking horse, or when landing after a jump.

With safety skirts and safety stirrups the danger from dragging is obviated. The appearance is unquestionably better in the side-saddle. Very few women look well when riding astride. In the mountainous West, on long trails, there are advantages in the cross-saddle. These saddles are different in construction from those in the East. They are Mexican saddles, with wide wooden stirrups, a high horn in front and a very high cantle, forming practically a dish-shaped seat, and are satisfactory on those trotting, loping horses. The proper construction of the side saddle depends largely upon the third pommel. This should set straight out from the saddle and come out over the left knee, with the end well curved down. This renders the position so firm that it is almost impossible to become unseated.

The simplest possible outlines are the smartest and they represent excellent results in the tailor's art. Many women, especially those who are just learning to ride, exaggerate the styles. This should not be done; the more simple the style the better the appearance.

Talk on Telephone. Conversing well by telephone is something of an art, but it is one easily acquired. To be able to talk clearly and agreeably over the wire is as possible as to be successful in business and as valuable an accomplishment in social life as is good personal appearance in a face-to-face interview. Being invisible to the person with whom you are speaking, the impression you make depends very largely on the quality of your voice when it reaches the other end of the line.

In telephoning to a person in your own town you will get the clearest transmission if you speak in an ordinary conversational tone. In fact, the tone should be a shade lower rather than higher than that you use in ordinary conversation.

For long distance talking the voice should be a little louder than it is when you speak to some one in the same room with you, but it should never even approach shouting, which causes the diaphragm in the transmitter to vibrate so fast that your words are likely to be jumbled when they are reproduced in the listener's receiver. If you cannot make yourself heard without too great an effort, signal your operator and she will do anything she can to remedy the difficulty.

Pronounce your words distinctly and not too rapidly. A telephone conversation generally lacks the pauses of face-to-face talk, so it should be slower to give a chance to catch the full meaning of each sentence.

Above all, speak directly into the transmitter with your lips close to the mouthpiece, and "throw" your voice, that is to say, do not "talk from the chest," which smothers your words, but force your breath from the mouth as you speak. The telephone instrument is designed to be used this way in order that it may be made to exclude, so far as possible, the miscellaneous noises within a building or from the street. If your voice does not go directly into the transmitter it will not be reproduced with full distinctness.

Law of the Road as Applied to Automobiles.

In compliance with your request, relative to the rights of automobile owners using the highway, will quote Chap. 287 of the Public Laws of Maine for 1903.

Section 1. No automobile or motor vehicle shall be driven, operated, or caused to be driven or operated, upon any highway, town way, public street, avenue, drive way, park or park way, at a greater rate of speed than fifteen miles an hour, or upon any highway, town way, public street, avenue, drive way, park or park way, within the compact or built up portions of any city, town or village, the limits of which shall be fixed by the municipal officers thereof, at a greater rate of speed than eight miles an hour, except where such city or town may by ordinance or by-law permit a greater rate of speed.
Section 2. No person driving or in charge of an automobile or motor vehicle, on any highway, town way, public street, avenue, drive way, park or park way, shall do so as to endanger the life or limb of any person; and racing any such vehicle on any such ways or parks is hereby forbidden.
Section 3. Every person driving or operating an automobile or motor vehicle shall at request and signal by putting up the hand, or by other visible signal, from a person riding or driving a horse or horses or other domestic animals, cause such vehicle to come to a stop as soon as possible and to remain stationary so long as may be necessary to allow such animal or animals to pass.
Section 4. Every such automobile or motor vehicle shall have attached thereto a suitable bell or other appliance for giving notice of its approach, which, when rung or otherwise operated, shall be heard at a distance of three hundred feet; and shall also carry a lighted lamp between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise.
Section 5. Municipal officers of any city or town may designate places on any street or ways therein, where, in their judgment, by reason of cliffs, embankments or other exceptional natural conditions, the meeting of automobiles or motor vehicles and horses would be attended with unusual danger. Such designation shall be made by causing the words 'automobiles and horses' to be conspicuously displayed on signboards at the right hand side of each approach to the place to be designated, and not more than one hundred and fifty feet distant therefrom; and an automobile or motor vehicle, before meeting any horse or horses, shall stop, and shall be brought to a standstill, and shall not proceed, unless by request of the rider or driver of the horse, until such horse shall have passed; and no such vehicle shall pass any place so designated at a greater speed than four miles an hour.
Section 6. The violation of any of the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding ten days.
From reading Sec. 3 of the above chapter, owners of horses should not be led to believe that in many cases, when their horse or horses become frightened of an approaching automobile, to drop the reins, throw up both hands, hoist an American flag or fire a salute of 21 guns and thereby increase their liability of getting a broken neck in order to attract the attention of the driver or owner of the auto.
The driver or owner of an automobile is bound to use due care in driving the same regardless of signals by persons endangered by his approach, and is liable for any damage caused by his negligence." (Waldo Herald.)

Art of Packing Trunks.

Calling Found by a Woman Who Thought She Had no Talent.
When that certain court jester said: "We live by our wits, my Lord," it seemed a little far from the mark, but the self-supporting girls who are trying to make a living in the summer time.

"We must live by our wits," said a woman who has found a profitable calling. "When I was thrown on my own resources unfortunately I hadn't a talent in the world except music, and I found giving music lessons was hopeless. What I should have asked $1 for I found hundreds glad to get 25 cents for."

"Quickly I accepted a clerkship in a large dry goods shop at just living wages, but soon I found I could write a little for the newspaper. These newspaper contributions led me into the field by which I have made my living the last three summers."

"What I do is to go to some summer resort, send back to one or two papers summer resort news, and professionally pack trunks. Packing, even in its simplest form is a difficult art. I don't always pack trunks alike; nor do I find women helpless as men. The latter simply toss things in, with the articles most needed at the bottom, and when required reach down and pull them up from underneath, tensing muscles, clearing boxes and books which should have all been in their proper place—the bottom. Shoes, however, wrapped in paper I do at times use to fill in corners and ballast."

"I always pack tightly, even if doing so leaves a tray empty. Loose packing will crush the contents all down to one side in transit. Heavier things and woollens must always go to the bottom. Lighten up as you go toward the top. Proper folding is absolutely essential. Try to pack all like articles together."

"Packing for a woman of course is radically different. She is going to live in her trunk she must impress on her mind when packing where each thing is placed. There are wardrobe trunks, hat boxes, shoe trunks, and thousands of luxuries for traveling but I can show a woman how to get along with half."

"Wardrobe trunks, convenient for few belongings, but I always pity those poor trunks. If there is anything a baggage hand will wear special vengeance on it is a trunk that will only stand on one end. I have found them with the bulges on the sides smashed in flat."

"For delicate things women should always carry plenty of tissue paper. Things not to be crushed should be packed so they will not. For instance I always fill sleeves of fine waists and dresses with a little tissue paper; also wrap shoes and books with it."

"If you have an up-standing wardrobe trunk see that each garment is hung properly on the shoulder racks and each rack pushed as tightly against the other as possible. It is the same way with the trousers' hangers in men's trunks."

"Try to pack all things orderly and in such a manner that if a matter of trunk stands on lid, end or bottom the things may be taken out as fresh and immaculate as when first put in."

"I receive orders for trunk packing at my hotel over the telephone. I am ready and sometimes have to take flying orders. After 3 o'clock in the evening I reserve my days. The managers of the hotels know me and some allow me to distribute cards or display the sign. Professional trunk packer may be engaged at a reasonable price."

"At the same time I gather my summer resort news at each of their hotels. Accordingly it is an exchange of courtesy all around and I expect to do a thriving business all through July and August."

"When some people look upon professional trunk packing as a doubtful self-supporting profession, you will find that in many cases at well regulated hotels guests will step up to the desk and ask for a professional packer."

"Last week I received a nice little fee from a traveling man in one of the large hotels in Atlantic City, who had six big trunks of his outfit, packed on exhibition. He was called away by telephone and sent for me to know if I could pack it safely. I said I'd try. Giving me a few instructions he pointed to a pile of champagne and flannel wrappings and left me."

"Left alone I conjured awhile, but finally common sense told me what to do and an afternoon's work found them safely packed. It was my first experience of the kind."

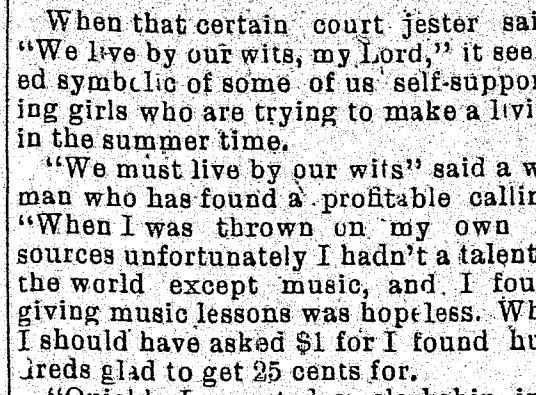

"A grateful letter from the traveling man told me that all had arrived without one breakage, something unusual even the suitcase, which I told you; but what delighted me most was that he added a little postscript saying, 'You have taught me a few tricks in packing; many thanks.' What they were I do not know, but I feel confident now that I can add another department to my professional packing—drummer's samples."

Need of Agricultural Training.

The advantages of agricultural training for the farmer may be classed as twofold, viz: the training of the mind and the accumulation of facts.
Success in my business requires clear sound thinking, quick intelligent thinking, the ability to see opportunities and the courage and confidence to grasp them and use them. A man must be ready to change his plans completely on a moment's notice. New conditions require new methods.
A man must look into the future and see the probable trend of events and prepare for them. He must be able to weigh and sift the experiences of others, and adopt the methods that have proved successful. He must be a student of men, be familiar with business forms and business transactions, a student of market conditions, so to be able to buy in the lowest and sell in the highest market. This "know how" (education) to do the right thing at the right time is the result of a trained mind and distinguishes man from a mere machine.
The farmer's life is a constant battle against enemies of one kind and another. He must know what to do if his horse runs into a wire fence or steps on a nail, if his cattle get the lumpy jaw or the milk fever, etc.

He must decide what crops are best adapted to his soil and climate and then study to get the maximum yield with the minimum expense. The maintaining and increasing the fertility of the soil must be constantly before his mind. This involves the rotation of crops and the application of manures and fertilizers. Insects must be studied and measures adopted to prevent their ravages.
Judgment and skill are necessary to select and handle machinery and tools, harness, etc., economically and not overstock, thus having capital lying idle. Fencing material must be grown or purchased for adaptability and durability to the farm in question.

Feeds are to be grown, exchanged or purchased, and then combined to produce milk, beef, pork, etc., economically. The amount and quality of feed given will depend on whether the animal is hard at work, is kept for breeding purposes, is fattened for the market or show, or is used for producing large quantities of milk and butter fat.
Mention has been made of a many things that a farmer needs to know. Ability to meet all of these demands promptly (delay may be expensive) requires knowledge of what to do or the ability to find quickly the necessary knowledge. The larger the store of useful facts, direct or references, the greater the chances of success.
The young farmer, with his limited experience, is apt to make many mistakes. At one of our county fairs a young man speaking of the value of an education along agricultural lines, said that he had lost $1,500 through mistakes, which could have been largely avoided had he possessed the knowledge that others had gained through experience.
Our agricultural colleges are endeavoring to help the young men of the various States. Their packs, even in its simplest form is a difficult art. I don't always pack trunks alike; nor do I find women helpless as men. Fruit Conditions.

Summarizing reports of fruit conditions in Maine, Dr. G. M. Twitchell, president of the State Pomological Society, said recently: "The promise of the blossoming period is not continued. No good explanation can be offered though colder weather prevailed just at that time.

Baldwins will suffer most, but hardly an orchard gives promise of a fair crop. The absence of bees is also reported, where last year they were in evidence everywhere. Pests are not so numerous, as spraying has been more general, but fungus diseases, especially apple scab fungus, are reported from all sections."

In the account of the Lanigan assault case in last week's ADVERTISER, James H. Glover of Oxford did not strike Lanigan with the club as he was reported to do. He says he handled him with his fists.

A Maine woman, Mrs. Charles O. Martin of Oxted, has originated the plan of reopening the Sebago canal to the old Sebago canal to open Northern Cumberland to navigation from the lake to the sea. State and government will be asked for aid.

Visitors to the Megalloway region (Oxford county) should bear in mind the new regulations relating to the shipment of fish taken from those waters, which were adopted by the Commissioners, after a hearing at Mountain View House, June 17th, on petition of the residents of the Megalloway section.

Following is the full text of the regulations:
"It shall be unlawful for any person to transport beyond the limits of this State more than five pounds of fish in any one day taken from the Megalloway waters, so-called in the county of Oxford, for a period of four years from July 12, A. D. 1910."

Are Doctors Any Good?

Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Pills for constipation, biliousness, sick-headache, we would not offer them to you. Ask your own doctor about this.

NORTH FRYEBURG.

Lawn Party.

On July 28th a very successful Lawn Party was held under the Auspices of the North Fryeburg Library Association. E. W. Jones very kindly giving the use of his grounds which were admirably adapted for a lawn party. Supper was served on the lawn. Terms and Japanese lanterns gave a very festive appearance.

In one tent was Prof. Ajab Astrologer, who divulged the future of many inquiring ones thereby netting a snug little sum in aid of the association as well as affording much amusement.

There was a candy booth and ice cream table each of which fulfilled its mission. A very pleasing entertainment was given in the evening which all seemed to appreciate and enjoy to the utmost.

Forty-five dollars was realized, about six dollars of it being gifts. The Association is very grateful to all those two hundred and more people who patronized the party enabling it to add such a nice bit to the needed treasury.

Charles Gray and family visited at his father's a few days last week.

Annie Mitchell was away on a visit to her father's A. E. Gray's last week.

Elwood Bemis is at Peaks Island working for E. S. Hutchins who is there with a party of men building a bungalow.

MIDDLE INTERVALL.

Minnie Kimball, who has been under the doctor's care for some time is growing weaker. We had hoped for her recovery as she is a woman of worth in character.

Francis Baker recently joined a company of friends and relatives at Sunset River and took an outing up country among the lakes and picturesque scenery of Maine and New Hampshire.

Mrs. Martha Wright, the only one living in the Stephen Packard family, sister of the late Stephen Packard, who died in Bethel, is reported as very feeble but kindly cared for by her son and daughter who live near her or with her in Boston. She cared for her own mother in her last sickness so now it comes to pass that she is reaping as she sowed kind care from her own children.

Ellen P. Kimball and Blanche have been above North Bethel in the vicinity of Sunday River for a visit to relatives. She passed the old home once occupied by Charles E. Kenley and family whose buildings were recently burned at South Paris. The writer remembers his family and how he served in the war of 1861. Now he is left alone. He fought for his country and served it faithfully. Newry county on both sides of the river is a business town on both sides of the river and the good crops and well made hay along the river to Bethel spoke well for the farmers and their work. It was a sad case of a young man by the name of Littlehale being taken to the Insane hospital recently. May God care for his mother who needs her son's help.

EAST PARIS.

H. D. Tuttle has finished haying on the Wheeler place.

Mark Shaw and family visited at F. L. Cotton's, Sunday, the 31st.

BUCKFIELD.

New State Librarian.

Harry C. Prince of Madison has assumed the office of state librarian. Mr. Prince was in the town of Buckfield, Oxford County, 44 years ago, the son of Ex-Senator Charles H. Prince and Buckfield (Atwood) Prince. He was educated in the common schools of Buckfield, Hebron academy, Coburn Classical Institute and Colby college of Waterville.

In 1891, after passing four years in Kansas and Indian Territory, he returned to Waterville and in company with E. T. Wyman bought the old Waterville Mail. In 1896, the firm started the Waterville Evening Mail, the first daily newspaper to be published in that city. A little later Mr. Prince purchased the interest of his partner and ran the paper successfully until 1905, when he sold the business to Herbert C. Libby.

Voices of the Press.

Many a person lives and dies without benefiting their fellowmen, simply because they do not see opportunity to do some great thing, that will bring to them the plaudits of the multitude.

The hosannas of the crowd are momentary and of no more value than the foam on the wave's crest.

He who works only for popular approval is feeding on husks and will find himself drinking many a draught of Marah's waters.

To do that which is right, to combat wrong, should be our highest ideal for life's work.

Let the record we write day by day be our epitaph and the gratitude of those we help, our monument.

Evil deeds will follow us like avenging Nemises, while the good we do will live on and on to bless others and keep fragrant the memory of our life's work.

The Blanks had invited a guest to dinner. As the last course was reached little Willie, who had been closely watching the guest almost continuously during the meal looked over at him once more and said:

"You haven't changed a bit since you started eating have you Mr. Curtis?"

"Why no," laughed the visitor. "Why do you ask that question?"

"Because," blurted out Willie, confused by the pair of eyes focused on him—because I heard you say you'd make a big hog of yourself as soon as you got your eyes on this food."

We often hear about a man "making a beast of himself" with strong drink; but while a man debauched by drink says "when I awake I will seek it again," with a beast usually one drink is enough.

"When I was a teacher, in Kilmalcolm parish," says John Fraser, "I was using whisky blitters for my stomach's sake. One day I dipped a piece of cake in it and gave it to the dog. He grudgingly ate it, curling his lip to avoid the taste. Ere long he became tipsy—he howled most piteously, and naturally looked up in my face as if for help. He began to swagger and act like a drunken man. The appearance of his face and eyes was extraordinary! He lay on the floor and howled until the effects of the drink wore off.

"This supreme folly—it was wicked. The dog never forgot the trick. Whenever afterward I went to the press for the bottle, he hastened to the outside of the house. One day, the door being shut, he sprang at one bolt through the window to get outside. So much for the wisdom of the dog—infinately surpassing foolish drinking men.

It is a mistaken idea that the proper way to lift a full grown cat is by the nape of its neck without supporting the lower part of its body with the other hand. It is true that the mother cat carries young kittens by grasping in her mouth the loose skin at the back of her offspring's neck, but a tiny kitten is a very different matter from a large cat, and indeed, the only way to lift a kitten without squeezing or hurting its soft little body is to lift it by its neck.

But after it has grown larger its own weight is too great to be supported by such a bit of skin and fur as is so grasped by the hand, and many a cat suffers perfect tortures by being held in this manner and is quite helpless to run or struggle, as in such a position certain of its muscles cannot be controlled, and it is absolutely at the mercy of its unfeeling tormentor.

The same rule should be observed in lifting rabbits by their ears. They should always be partially supported by the free hand and not allowed to dangle with their whole weight straining from their large but necessarily delicate ears.

There is at present registered at one of the large women's exchanges in New York a woman who is known to her clientele as "cheering up lady." She goes into homes to cheer up her patrons, and her demands this spring have been more than she has been able to fill.

She is a slender, middle aged and is a fragile, slender little person, with a sweet, kindly face and a sympathetic manner.

"How did I come to take up the profession of cheering up?" she said. "As I have been engaged in it several years it would be hard to tell just how I began to build up my clientele, but in the first place I might say that I have had deep trouble in my life, myself, and that were times when a good sympathetic friend would have been a great boom to me."

"There are times when an outsider, the right kind of an outsider, having sympathy and patience can come into a person's, or a family's life and bring about a great change in the way of cheering up things. That is just what I have done for several years.

"Sometimes I receive calls from women I have never seen before. I go to a house and find some great sorrow, a newly made widow, a bereft mother, or a big house may be in chaos because of a family quarrel or an upheaval among the servants. All these conditions come under my daily observation, and you would be astonished to find how many helpless women are under great stress. They sink into a desolate heap and wait for help.

"No, I do not go into these homes like a professional, trained nurse to follow a doctor's orders. On the contrary my cases require an entirely different treatment. In fact, I might say I am getting older from the exhaustion of my life forces and sympathy. I cannot help but feel the situation as keenly as the people who send for me, which is a constant wear and tear that necessarily shows itself on me; but I have made so many good friends and lasting friendships that I believe I am paid in the long run.

"I find the least happiness, it seems, in the wealthy homes. The women who reign there seem the least able to stand trouble. As a rule they are used to all the comforts money can buy and when it comes to a downright stroke of ill luck, disappointment or sorrow they go to pieces."

The country newspaper is the most valuable of all advertising mediums. It is taken and read by people immediately tributary to the town to which it is printed, and its relation with its readers is intimate and its influence is strong.

A country paper with a small circulation is worth far more as an advertising medium than many times the same number of papers issued as a part of the circulation of a metropolitan publication.

A metropolitan paper is hurriedly read by busy people, the departments that the individual is interested in are hastily scanned and the remaining mass of pages is tossed aside and never looked at. The country paper, which is smaller and more compact, is read carefully and thoroughly.

Fruit Conditions.

Summarizing reports of fruit conditions in Maine, Dr. G. M. Twitchell, president of the State Pomological Society, said recently: "The promise of the blossoming period is not continued. No good explanation can be offered though colder weather prevailed just at that time. Baldwin will suffer most, but hardly an orchard gives promise of a fair crop. The absence of bees is also reported, where last year they were in evidence everywhere. Fests are not so numerous, even as spraying has been more general, but fungus diseases, especially apple scab fungus, are reported from all sections."

Are Doctors Any Good?

Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

NORTH FRYEBURG.

Lawn Party.

On July 28th a very successful Lawn Party was held under the auspices of the North Fryeburg Library Association. E. W. Jones very kindly giving the use of his grounds, which are admirably adapted for a lawn party. Supper was served on the lawn. Tents and Japanese lanterns gave a very festive appearance. There was a candy booth and ice cream table each of which fulfilled its mission. A very pleasing entertainment was given in that evening which all seemed to appreciate and enjoy to the utmost.

Canning Tomatoes Whole.

Pick out firm, large tomatoes of uniform size. Lay in a pan and cover with boiling water. Cover for ten minutes and strip off the skins. Have ready two quart jars, sterilized and heated. Pack one full of the whole and skinned tomatoes. Set in a deep pan of boiling water and fit the cover to the jar loosely. Now fill another jar and set it in the pan. Do this until the jars are full. Cover and let them stand in the boiling water for eight minutes. Take off the tops, one at a time, and fill to overflowing with boiling water from the teakettle. Seal and set aside in the dark to cool.

Tomatoes, however canned, should be kept from the light until you are ready to use them. Wrap each can in thick paper. The light acts chemically upon color and flavor.

Putting Money In Clothes

A Clearance sale is a good place to lay in supplies. Putting your money into the clothes we are offering now at special prices is just as good a place as you can find for it. The difference between present prices and what the clothes sell for regularly is a bigger rate of interest than you can get in other ways. Even if you are stocked up pretty well it will pay you to add a summer weight suit to your wardrobe. The amount you will have to pay is very small compared to the months of satisfaction you'll get out of the clothes. We are able to fit your taste in fabrics and style; the sooner you come the easier this will be.

The Second Regiment.

The Second Regiment, N. G. S. M., will be mobilized in Portland Aug. 31, to go from here to Pine Plains in New York to take part in the manoeuvres with other New England regiments.

Instead of a war game, as has been tried several times in the past ten years, the scheme of the tour of duty at Pine camp will be instruction. There will be a regular army officer assigned to each battalion of guardsmen for the purpose of instructing them in the work.

The first few days will be devoted exclusively to such instruction. There will be lessons in outpost work, rear and flank guard, formation for attack and snub. This will be by companies, by battalions and by regiments. It will last through until Saturday Aug. 27, when the drill will be out and the manoeuvres work begun, continuing through Monday and Tuesday.

The Second Regiment will go into camp with approximately 672 enlisted men and 52 commissioned officers. In addition to these there will be four officers of the medical corps and the 13 enlisted men of the hospital corps, a total of approximately 744 men. In addition there will be the Second Regiment Band of Bangor.

The first ten day period at Pine camp will be devoted to the New York troops, as will the second, while the third will be devoted to the troops of Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The troops which will be in the camp during that third period will be: Second Regiment infantry of Maine; first infantry, Vermont; sixth, Massachusetts; and the first squadron of cavalry, Rhode Island, and the hospital corps from Maine and Vermont.

Co. D, Capt. Moses P. Stiles, are ordered to report at their armory on Saturday morning Aug. 20 at 7 o'clock. The first call will be sounded at 7.15 a. m., assemble at 7.30. The Co. will camp at the Fair Grounds Saturday night.

Norway Once More Out of Debt

The town of Norway received its act of incorporation March 9, 1797, and the first town meeting was held some time during March, the exact date is not known. At this meeting it was voted to raise for the state tax, $41.01; ministers' tax, $31.00; money tax, $1.00; highway tax, $80.00. The tax list that first year showed that there were 86 polls, boys of sixteen years of age being then required to pay a poll tax. The total valuation of real and personal estate in 1798 amounted to $2,119.00. Each year the town held its annual meetings, also special meetings when deemed necessary, and the records show an increase in the town valuation. In 1811 the town valuation was $48,204.00; in 1813, $61,408.00; in 1821, $77,188.00; in 1825, $99,458.00; and in 1835, $129,940.00. During these years more had been raised for the building and maintenance of roads and the erecting and support of schools. In 1837 a census of the town was taken to aid in the distribution of the money, known as "the surplus revenue." The inhabitants numbered 1791, and the sum amounted to two dollars for each person in town. The valuation continued to increase and in 1845 was $165,701.00.

At the time of the Civil war, on August 23, 1862, a special meeting of the town was held and the treasurer was instructed to hire $100.00 for each man who should volunteer on the quota of Norway, the same to be paid to him when mustered in the service of the U. S. Another special meeting was held Sept. 8, and the duties of the previous meeting were reconsidered and it was voted that the selectmen be authorized to deliver a town order for $120.00, payable in one year, with interest, to each volunteer soldier who should enlist, and $3,000.00 was voted to be paid him. In 1863 the town raised $1500.00 to pay him the sum hired. At this meeting the selectmen were authorized to hire $500.00 to aid the soldiers' families.

On November 24, 1863, it was voted to pay each enlisted person who was duly mustered on the quota of Norway the sum of $100.00 to be paid by means of a town note, due in three years with interest annually.

In 1864, $1800.00 was raised on the town debt and $2000.00 to pay soldiers' notes. At a meeting held Aug. 11, it was voted to raise by loan $25.00 for each recruit and $1200.00 to pay State Aid. At another meeting held Dec. 31, it was voted to raise by loan the sum of $6000.00 to fill Norway's quota of the Federal's last call. In 1865 the town voted to raise $2000.00 to pay part of the town's indebtedness. In 1868, $8000.00 was paid on the debt. At a meeting Aug. 25, the selectmen were authorized to borrow $9000.00 to pay expenses in repairing the highways in town. In 1867 the town raised $2000.00 for the town's debt and interest, and in 1868, $360.00 interest was paid. In 1869, $380.00 was paid for interest. At a special meeting in 1872 the town voted to raise a sum not to exceed $10,000.00 to aid in the establishment of a shoe factory in the village. The committee were instructed to raise the money on time of not less than 12 years. The committee of the town contracted with B. F. Spinney & Co., and decided to locate the building on the Tucker lot. In 1873 a special meeting was held Aug. 5, at which it was voted that the State of Maine bonds in possession of the town should be turned over to the committee on the shoe factory and that the balance, $2500.00, the treasurer of the town pay from the treasury. A special meeting of the town was held the 21st of August, 1875, and it was voted to sell the shoe factory to B. F. Spinney & Co. for $10,000.00, payable at the expiration of the present contract, or in cash at the present worth at $10,000.00, paid any time during the contract.

The town valuation in 1876 was $287,823.00 and the amount committed for collection was $12,329.07. The number of polls was 511. In 1879 a special meeting was held April 4, and it was voted to raise $500.00 and subscribe the same for stock in the Norway Branch R. R. and that the selectmen negotiate a loan of the amount at a rate of interest not to exceed 5 per cent.

In 1885, $1000.00 was paid on the town debt. In 1886, at an adjourned meeting March 6th, it was voted to raise $2500.00 for schools and interest on the town debt and town charges. In 1884, bonds were issued to the amount of $23,000.00 and a little later bonds were issued to the amount of $5500.00. In 1886, $2000.00 was raised on the town debt and $500.00 interest on debt. In 1887-88, $2000.00 was raised. In 1889, $2500.00; in 1890, $1500.00; and at a special meeting held July 12th, it was voted to hire $400.00 to pay for the raising of the Crockett Bridge to allow steamers to pass. In 1891, $1000.00 toward the town debt

Well Known Author and Composer.

The "Star of Progress," a book of 363 pages filled with devotional music for congregation, quartet or choir, lyrics, songs, marches and responsive readings together with beautiful select poems and hymns, original music with words for dedicatory services, also miscellaneous and children's songs for home entertainment or concert, published by the author, H. W. Smith, is a very interesting, spiritual book. Most of the music is composed and many of the words written by Mr. Smith, and a musician will find some rare harmonies.

Especially do we call attention to "Ministering Angels," "I Know These Are Beautiful Flowers in Heaven," "Twilight, Beautiful Hour of Closing Day," "Reverie," "Valiant Men" for chorus of voices, "All Hail to Truth" for chorus of voices, "I Know a Place," and "I Heard a Voice at Eventide." "What Shall the Harvest Be?" and "Speak Gently" are among Mr. Smith's songs in this book that have been sung and sung so many times that everyone, nearly, knows them and can sing them if they sing at all. Mr. Smith, who is well known in Oxford county, is a great admirer of the beautiful hills and streams here. He has spent much time at West Sumner and has friends there.

Railroads and Their Relation to the People

The man who knocks on the railroad belongs to the Lobsteria. As the railroad shops prosper we all prosper. When the shops shut down orders for iron are cancelled, and the car lines are closed, we are all up against it, and the bread-line forms.

Always in times of stress a vast number of people look to the Government for relief. But what shall we say of a Government which makes war on those who are now giving work to millions, and thereby assure us of unemployment? If the men in charge of the Government insist on being business-baiters the hoarse roar of the mob, demanding work or bread, will again be heard, and women and children will be pushed, defenceless into the storm.

Business in this country gives work and wages to everyone who wants to work. Let business alone.

Ex-parte actions against the railroads should be forbidden by the Statute. Burglary, hold-ups, strong-arm tricks, rape, are all ex-parte proceedings. And what think you of the equity of a President who resorts to an ex-parte action in order to gain a cheap and transient legal victory over a very important part of the people whom he has sworn to protect in their legal rights.

The railroads have only one thing to sell, and that is transportation and the people of this country are willing and anxious to pay for the transportation all it is worth. We are not mendicants, and we ask for nothing at less than its value.

He who tries to incite class hatred and makes it appear that there is a great gulf between the railroads and the people, is a wicked sham. The railroads thrive only as the people thrive, and every railroad manager knows it. ELBERT HUBBARD.

Queer Furses.

People have some queer places in which to carry their money. No two folks, especially no two women folks, seem to take the same precaution. The street car conductor has the best opportunity of seeing the queer customs of all races in this respect. The coins that are turned in the coffers of the street car company come from all manner of queer hiding places on the carrier's body.

After all the individual that causes the man with the ticket punch the most trouble is woman, lovely woman, with her big leather bag supposedly carried as a purse. She usually refers to it as hurried and the greater the haste of the man who is forced to wait upon her the longer she is bound to be. Inside the trunklike leather bag that she carries is another somewhat smaller. Inside of this yet is a purse in which she carries her carfare.

It is, of course, necessary to search for some time after the change is discovered for a coin of the right denomination. The car usually travels two blocks while she is making her payment and getting her change. The trouble is that the woman who prefers to carry her money in the old reliable little thread hosiery bag. It may be a little embarrassing for a new and unsophisticated conductor for a fare to be paid from this, the most reliable of all hiding places, but he grows accustomed to it in time.

Moving Trout.

The wisdom of taking fish from the small streams that are drying up and placing them in the same stream or another one nearby was proved by one of the state fish and game wardens last week.

The warden found a stream that is about a mile and a quarter long, where the trout were fast reaching the stage where nothing could help them, although none of them had died.

In some of the pools, the fish were gasping near the surface, and they all showed unmistakable signs of nearing starvation.

There were seven hundred of the little fellows from this year's fry. Two pound trout found and all were removed, but the fry and all revived promptly upon being placed in running water. —Maine Woods.

Fire at Andover

At 1.45 o'clock Thursday afternoon July 28, a bad fire was discovered in the large stable connected with the Hotel Twitchell. The stable was destroyed, all the hay burned and several harnesses and carriages lost. Mrs. Twitchell made her way through the dense smoke to release a horse which she got out in safety, while Rev. Mr. Packard saved a cow and some pigs. The shed connecting the barn and the hotel was badly damaged and Dr. Twitchell's garage caught several times but was saved. The loss will be $10,000 and there is $5,000 insurance.

Lincoln Higgins, a small boy from Somerville, Mass., began playing with one of the small pigs which was saved from the fire and the sow attacked him, trampling on him and quite severely injuring the boy before help could reach him.

The cause of the fire is a mystery. It apparently caught in the stable lot when none of the men were around.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

GREENWOOD

A Close Escape.

Herbert Berrymont, a lad of 12 years, had a narrow escape from drowning a few days ago while in swimming near the city. Wading in he lost his balance and got out beyond his depth. He swam a little, but lost his presence of mind and went down.

Fortunately Llewellyn Emmons was near and hurried to the spot. Young Berrymont went down the third time when Emmons arrived and it was necessary for him to dive to bring the boy to the surface. In a few moments after he was brought to land he was all right and rode home none the worse for his adventure.

Nearly time for campaign fireworks. Mary Dresser is working at Sylvester Cole's.

Haying is practically all done. There was an abundant crop. Prices are low and stock high.

The thermometer got so near the freezing point July 23, we thought we felt the breath of Jack Frost.

Berries of the old variety are extremely scarce this summer with the exception of blackberries. At all appearances they will be plenty.

Charlie Swan and family have gone to Milan, N. H., to cut the hay on Mr. Swan's place. Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Emmons accompanied them.

With an abundance of green peas, string beans, early beets, cauliflower, etc., we can say with great gusto, "To blazes with the meat trust."

Canning String Beans.

String them thoroughly and cut into inch lengths. Cook tender, but do not let them break. Season with salt and pepper. Lift from the boiling pot with a split spoon and fill the prepared jars under your hand. Strain the water in which they were boiled, bring quickly to a boil and fill up jars, which stand in hot water until filled.

Benjamin Russell, an aged resident of Lovell, died suddenly, Tuesday afternoon, July 12th, after a sickness of a few days, he sat around the house all day Sunday and didn't feel very well, but Monday morning he arose the same as usual and laid around on the couch and his son and wife called the doctor.

Tuesday he was taken worse and died in the afternoon, he didn't seem to be in any pain but passed away very easily. He knew everything up to the last.

He leaves two daughters and two sons, five grand children and two great-grand children and one sister, Mrs. Lizzie Stearns who was unable to be there as she is an aged lady.
